The Heritage Education Grant Program is administered by the Kentucky Historical Society in cooperation with the Kentucky Heritage Council, agencies of the Kentucky Commerce Cabinet.

Heritage Education Grants

Kentucky Heritage Education Grants are available to schools in the state for projects that benefit students in grades K-12. There are two categories of grants: Minigrants for school field trips and Project Grants for history-related projects in the classroom. This package includes guidelines and application forms for each.

Minigrants are available to schools for support of field trips by K-12 classes to sites within 100 miles of the school. The goal of the Heritage Education Minigrants is to provide opportunities for students to learn about and explore the history and heritage of their own community and region. Project Grants are available to schools to support history projects in K-12 classrooms. The goal of the Heritage Education Project Grants is to provide funding for projects that help students gain a better understanding of local, regional, or state history.

At the Kentucky Historical Society, school programs are based on the belief that learning about the past can be engaging, meaningful, and fun! Education staffs offer student programs that promote an understanding and appreciation of the state's diverse heritage. Teacher services help educators find and use heritage resources at all grade levels. The Society has been working with young historians since 1962, when the Kentucky Junior Historical Society was founded. Students across the state can participate in this network of history clubs or create projects for annual, regional, and state National History Day competitions. Groups that can travel to Frankfort can take advantage of school tours at the Society's three museums or experience the biennial Kentucky Folklife Festival.

The Kentucky Historical Society believes that good teaching is the key to heritage education. Education staff offer professional-development programs that combine content, teaching methods, and resources. Besides Heritage Education Grants, the Society also offers artist-in-residence grants to support the presentation of local folklife traditions in the classroom. Publications for teachers feature primary sources, classroom activity plans, and other resources on topics from the frontier to World War II. There are also two excellent resources for teachers about the civil rights movement in Kentucky. An online database provides comprehensive access to audio and video interviews pertaining to civil rights in Kentucky (http://162.114.3.83/civil\_rights\_mvt/). The video, Living the Story: The Civil Rights Movement in Kentucky, is available for purchase; it is $12 for educators, plus $3 for shipping.

The mandate of the Kentucky Heritage Council is to identify, preserve, and protect the historic resources of Kentucky. The Council maintains continually updated inventories of historic structures and archeological sites and nominates properties to the National Register of Historic Places. By working with other state and federal agencies, local communities, and interested citizens, the Council seeks to build a greater awareness of Kentucky's past and to encourage the long-term preservation of Kentucky's significant historic resources. Through its various programs, the Council seeks to show how historic resources contribute to the heritage, economy, and quality of life for all Kentuckians. The Kentucky Heritage Council maintains an extensive database of historic sites in every county of Kentucky and more detailed information on those properties that are listed in the National Register of Historic Places. Teachers and students may request listings of properties from that inventory. Teaching with Historic Places (TwHP) is a program of the National Park Service's National Register of Historic Places. Over the years TwHP has developed a variety of products and services. These include a series of lesson plans; guidance on using places to teach; information encouraging educators, historians, preservationists, site interpreters, and others to work together effectively; and professional-development publications and training courses. Information about these lesson plans and other techniques on using historic places to teach is available on the National Park Service Web site:

www.cr.nps.gov/nr/twhp/index.htm. The Kentucky Heritage Council has a Historic Schools Initiative underway. This effort is currently undertaking an inventory of historic schools throughout the commonwealth that are still being used for educational programs. The Council has also developed several case studies on historic school buildings that have been successfully adapted to new uses in the community. To learn more about this historic-schools initiative, visit the agency Web site: www.state.ky.us/agencies/khc/school.htm.

The Kentucky Heritage Council partners with Preservation Kentucky, Inc., to coordinate an annual student Photo-Essay competition. Students are encouraged to select a historic site in their community, photograph it, and write an essay about its significance to the community. For more information on this program and a posting of winning entries from 2002, visit the Preservation Kentucky Web site: www.preservationkentucky.org.
